

On 29th of December 2015, Gyan Bharati School organized a “Study abroad” seminar in collaboration with ‘Marya – The Princeton Review’ , for the students of classes S2 and SS1.

The seminar was an interactive session where students were given knowledge of courses, university selection criteria and application processes in countries like U.S, Canada, U.K. and Australia. Along with this, the students were made aware about the format of the common test (SAT) which forms the basis of admission into foreign universities and also informed students about the upcoming changes in the pattern of SATs.

The experts also took up the doubts of the students, bringing clarity to their minds. Overall the session served as an eye-opener for students to develop personal skills and capacities and to maintain a focused approach towards their higher education goals.
