

On 27th of October 2016, Shaheed Sukhdev College of Business Studies organized and Interschool Commerce Fest, "Prodigy 10.0, The Ivory Tower Breakout", marking the event's 10th anniversary. As many as fifty five schools including ours participated which were preselected on the basis of an online preliminary round consisting of a presentation on making a given business program a success.

The qualified schools now competed in 2 different teams of two each in the onstage events, namely the Cognitive Crossroads and the Age of Avarice. The Cognitive Crossroads was a bidding quiz on general business awareness. It comprised of 4 rounds, each requiring the participating teams to bid a certain amount of their capital on their answers and the team clinching the best deals on the correct answers would be declared the winner. The second one, Age of Avarice was an event providing its participants a real insight into the practicality involved in wealth management. It consisted of simultaneously managing many investment avenues like equity stocks, government securities, corporate bonds, and other projects by rearranging portfolios and the team having the highest net worth winning the event.

Our school quiz team comprising Ravish Usman Rizvi and Rohan Dash of SS2 C brought laurel by winning their event.

Through the combined scores the students made it to the top 12 and consequently to the final round, "The Heuristic Hinterlands" where they were required to bid on the defenses of various dynasties, compose armies, form alliances and destroy enemies to win the event. The whole event with all its surprises and thrills made it an unforgettable experience for the students.
